Dermatology Practice Self-assessment Checklist

Neurofibromatoses (NFs) are a group of diseases involving the skin as well as other organs. At least 8 different forms of NFs have been described; these are often referred to as neurofibromatosis 1 through 8 or (NF1-8). However, there is no unified classification system for these diseases. NF1 and NF2 are well-described forms, defined by clinical features as well as distinct genetic mutations ...
